I have major concerns as to the continued pressure on the Green Belt around Oxford. The existing new developments alongside the A40 are already too large and we should not allow more development.

There are more than enough brown /redevelopment options available.

Traffic considerations have not been taken seriously - Oxford and surrounding areas are already very congested - any development needs to focus on traffic management and costs and upgrades should be allocated to the developers / land sellers and not to the public.

I note that low car use schemes and controlled parking zones are mooted as solutions - they do not work - you cannot force people to not have cars. Proper solutions including better public transport to encourage people rather than punish them are the only options.

The villages that are just outside these development areas have practically no public transport so adding more congestion to the roads seriously damages existing residents quality of life extending commuting times etc.

Finally The SSSI Sidlings Copse and College Pond - we cannot ignore these havens for wildlife which will be damaged by the development extensions proposed.
