Including a new paragraph in response to the Inspector's questions and to the concerns expressed during the Hearings on the issue of the climate change emergency is most welcome. However, this modification, like a number of other modifications (e.g. MM4, MM8, MM56, MM63, MM69) aimed at addressing concerns with the legislation linked to the Climate Law (and, more broadly, public, local, and expert concerns with the impact of accelerated climate change on modelling land use change) is extremely unsatisfactory.

The biggest problem with these modifications is that they recommend to either adopt 'good practice' or avoid 'bad practice,' without ever giving precise targets or imposing binding rules and standards. Co-opting concerns around the impact of accelerated climate change on land use change policy without clear targets and specific quotas will not do. We must ensure compliance with the highest standards, and not just recommend that they should be considered by developers.

This fundamental flaw in the proposed main modifications is compounded with the fact that every single mention of house requirement or development density is accompanied by quantified, mandatory targets. The contrast between addressing the climate change emergency in aspirational, quality terms and imposing a housing strategy through a quantified, mandatory, top-down policy is what makes this document a mockery of democratic values and planning principles.

This modification raises a number of issues regarding alterations to the Green Belt boundary. My objections relate to the fact that the proposed modifications do not adequately address concerns expressed during the Hearings and Post-Hearings, or matters and issues raised.

The vision expressed here for compensating losses of green space resulting from taking land out of the Green Belt in order to develop housing estates is utterly inadequate. Compensatory improvements must be clearly laid out in terms of landscape, biodiversity, and recreational needs, and quantified. In most of the areas where such housing developments are being proposed, there is a scarcity of land to accommodate all the identified biodiversity and recreational needs. Whereas 'nature' should come first as the best way to address the climate change emergency, the vision expressed here means that 'nature' will have once again to be sacrificed to short-term greed. Moreover, the recreational needs of the increased population are not properly taken into consideration. There are no clear, quantified targets for the provision of parks and green spaces. Moreover, compensatory improvements are left to the developers' judgement and ability. Providing green spaces for both biodiversity recovery and recreational purposes should be made mandatory according to clear quotas and binding rules.

The paragraph removed contains more accurate information regarding the infrastructural challenges linked to the development of LnBB than the modified paragraph, especially on transport infrastructure issues. Worse, the grammatical structure of the new, modified paragraph is so incomprehensible that I am unsure as to the exact meaning of it. And I am not alone to have struggled with trying to understand the modified paragraph. The three Oxford-educated individuals who accepted to read it with me came to the same conclusion. This awkwardness is repeated in other documents linked to LnBB, such as, for instance, The Assessment Addendum of the HRA Main Modification prepared by LUC, which is available under Scheduled Policy Map Changes (see in particular paragraph 4.115, pages 32, 33, and 34). It is possible that this modification is not put in plain English simply because it tries to occult something that is evident and obvious to those who live in and around Barton. The site cannot be developed as intended and stated in SODC Local Plan. Developing LnBB would require major infrastructural investments, such as a new pedestrian and cycling bridge; a new highway; and possibly a new round-about. The cost would be prohibitive, and out of balance with the development's financial returns. The Oxford City Council has no funding to invest in such infrastructure, and it is highly unlikely that the housing developers would be prepared to meet the costs of developing a fit-for-purpose travel and transport plan either. A simple Cost and Benefit Analysis suffices to demonstrate that taking land out of the Green Belt without having a clear plan as to how this land will be developed to benefit the people of Oxford is a grave error. I have focused on LnBB not only because I am familiar with the case, but also because it is the most extreme example of what is wrong with the process through which the Growth Board has operated in its approach to reforming the Green belt in Oxfordshire.
